

SPRING TIME

Spring is coming. I can hear the birds' songs as they prepare their nests in the trees' branches. The sound of lawn mowers making their first cut of the year fills the air. I smile at children's squeals of laughter as they play outside, enjoying the Sun's heat as it warms the Earth.

Soon, small green shoots will appear from the ground. Buds will open and the flowers' scents will attract the insects. Gardens will spring to life once again.
